TAFT DRAFT FAILS

Measure Worked Out in Bi-Partisan Conference Is Lost.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, March 15.—Paving the way for a final vote on the reservation to Article Ten, the senate today rejected, 51 to 47, Senator Taft's substitute proposal of a summary disavowal of all obligations.

The reservation worked out, but not agreed to in the bi-partisan conference, was offered by Senator Kirby, democratic, Arkansas, who voted yesterday, 45 to 31, for the republicans and Senators Gore, Reed, Shields, Williams and Harrison, democrats, voted against it.

Taft Substitutes Rejected.

The senate also promptly rejected, 46 to 30, the sub-reservation drafted by former president Taft which was offered in the bi-partisan conference by Senator Hitchcock and presented to the senate today by Senator Kirby. The Taft draft disavowed any legal obligation, but gave congress power to act under a moral obligation.

Senators Reed supported the Frelinghuysen substitute.

"The American people," he said, "will not be deceived by any shell game of politics."

League Languishes.

Senator Brandegee said rejection of the Frelinghuysen substitute would not impair the chances of some kind of obligation. "The Lodge reservation," Mr. Brandegee declared, "weaves through a tangled skein of language to the same result."

"The American people," he added, "would rather have plain, blunt, understandable language."

Those voting for the substitute were:

Republicans—Burke, Brandegee, Fernald, French, Frelinghuysen, Gronna, Knox, McCormick, Shantz, Morgan, Norris, Poindexter, Sutherland and Wadsworth.
Democrats—Gore, Reed, and Shields.

No G. O. P. Vote for Taft.

No single republican vote was cast for the Taft reservation, and five democrats—Harrison, Gore, Reed, Sutherland and Shields, voted with the republicans against it.

Without a record vote the senate rejected Senator King's substitute declaring that no obligation would be assumed in advance of the election. A resolution would consider recommendations of the league council to protect territorial integrity of any league member.

Simmons Substitute Rejected.

Another substitute by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, was rejected, 51 to 27. It proposed an obligation to the League of Nations "friendly offices" to protect nations against external aggressions, but disclaimed any liability for use of American military or economic forces unless in any particular case Congress should so provide.

Primer Joachim Is Held.

Prince Joachim Albrecht, who has been confined to Montfort prison since his attack on allied officers at the Hotel Adlon, 10 days ago, has not been liberated.

An announcement was made by the government late tonight of reports from Munich that the Bavarian socialist government had resigned and that the troops were in control of that city. The reports add that the Landtag would meet Tuesday to form a new government.

Landtag Quiet.

Another announcement by the Papal government stated that conditions in East Prussia were quiet, civilians and military guarding the railways and post offices.

As regards Hamburg the government statement said the situation was not clear. It added:

Saxony Troops Neutral.

In Mecklenburg-Schwerin no strikes have taken place. General Lettow-Vorbeck (former commander of the German troops in German East Africa) has been charged with the leadership of that party and will invite members to join the new organization. A revolt under the leadership of Muller of Schleswig and Lord Robert Cecil is expected, says the Daily Mail.

NEW CHANCELLOR OF
GERMANY WAS BORN
IN NEW YORK CITY

(By Associated Press.)

New York, March 15.—Born in this city in 1858, Wolfgang Kapp, chancellor of the new German government. In his youth refused to learn German and when he was 12 years old was taken to that country by his father to finish his education, it was learned tonight. He never returned to the United States.

Prince Kapp, the boy's father, was active in the German revolution of 1848 and came to this city where he established a law firm in Wall street with Henry Fitz. The firm since has been dissolved.

The elder Kapp organized a league of Germans for Fremont when the latter ran for president on the republican ticket. Kapp later became a friend and supporter of Lincoln. He was an intimate friend of Carl Schurz and Dr. Abraham Jacobi.

In 1852 he married the daughter of the commandant of the fortress of Coblenz in the old state of Napoleon's kingdom. She was born in Germany. They moved to this city where the present chancellor and two daughters were born.

U. S. CODE WAS UNSAFE SAYS SIMS

Rear Admiral Deplores Fact He Was Not Consulted on Convoy System.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, March 15.—German submarines were able to attack the first convoy of American troop ships sent to France because the navy department used an unsafe code which was intercepted and deciphered, Rear Admiral Sims told the senate investigating committee.

One of the four "good luck" brought the convoy safely to port, the admiral said, and other troopers and destroyers were endangered through similar incidents early in the war.

Berlin Was Posted.

The announcement of the sailing of the first American destroyers was printed in Berlin four days before they arrived at Queenstown," declared the officer.

Admiral Sims said he warned the department not to send messages regarding troop convoys in the code referred to, but the warning was disregarded.

Information regarding convoys found in France was known in social circles in Paris before even General Sims was informed officially, Admiral Sims asserted.

Sims Not Consulted.

Arrangements for the early convoys "were confusing" and did not conform to the allies' methods of safeguarding troopers in transit, Admiral Sims said, and the naval department made no effort to consult him and thus avail itself of the experience of the allies in handling troopers.

Regulations for the convoys were drawn up in the war time department and signed by President Wilson, Secretary Baker and Daniels, General Bliss and Admiral Benson on May 27 without reference to him, Admiral Sims stated.

"As an illustration of how completely I was in the dark," the admiral said, "I received information from the British naval authorities concerning the convoy before I was officially informed of it by the department."

Receives Daniels' Confidence.

Referring to a message from Secretary Daniels, dated Jan. 18, 1917, marked "very confidential" and containing directions for the protection of the convoy by destroyers, Admiral Sims said it "would be impossible to find a more striking example of the department's insistence upon making decisions based upon complete misinformation."

Requests Not Carried Out.

In response to his protests, the admiral said, he received a reply that the "department recognizes the

OCCUPIED DIS-TRICTS.

CENSORSHIP STRICT

But Little News Comes From Berlin; Two Parties Back of Move.

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, March 15.—France contemplates sending three more army troops to Wiesbaden, Neustadt and Bonn along the Rhine, according to the Parisian Marshal Foch, who will call a meeting of the supreme war council as soon as he returns from Mayence, where he will confer today with allied commanders. Reports mentioning this indicate that he will have been taken to maintain order in occupied districts of Germany.

Censorship Is Severe.

Information received here would seem to indicate the utmost calm is prevailing in Germany, although the two parties in Berlin may be responsible for a lack of detailed information.

Advices from other sources indicate the reactionary movement beginning in Berlin and that measures are being taken to maintain order in occupied districts of the city. A general strike affecting transportation, electric power and the water supply of Berlin has been declared, and railroad workers are said to have asked Dr. Wol-fgang Kapp, the new chancellor, to leave his office.

Was Down-Hearted.

Berlin's attitude was strengthened when an unmailed post card to his nephew in Beloit was found in one of his pockets in which he had written at the close, "I am down-hearted." There was no doubt about the card.

Whether he jumped into the river above or below the dam at Fourth avenue is unknown. The body was found below the dam a few feet south of the railroad trestle and about 50 feet from the east bank where there was a bridge over the creek. His body was taken to the undertakers of County Coroner Lynn A. Whaley. It will be buried at Beloit tomorrow where the funeral will be held.

Yaeger had been missing from the Rock county insane asylum since March 11. His disappearance over his mental condition and physical wrongs led him to drown himself on that day. He often complained of having "spirits" tell him his legs were going to be cut off, advising him to "live down-heated."

and several nephews, one of whom, street, Beloit. He was to come to Janesville this afternoon to identify the body.

While in his right mind, Yaeger was a mechanic. He worked in ma-

Chief Thomas Morrissey states that here last fall he saw a man answering only such pretensions as the imperial guard of the military spirit in Prussia demands. Whatever may prove to be eventually the regularly constituted government of Prussia and the other states in the former German empire is pre-occupying of the United States and the Pan-American party, which was without any political support. Leaders of the conservative parties and such industrial leaders as Dr. Walter Rathenau, president of the German General Electric company, it was declared, had condemned the movement.

Committed Twice.

From all the information thus far received, it was added, the impression in official circles was that the military party might hold possession of Berlin and the Pan-American party, carrying on the revolution there for some time, possibly a month or two, but that without the support of other political elements that the Pan-American party would be compelled to fail.

Committed Again.

A trusted inmate, he was allowed liberty at times by Capt. Archie Cullen, who never experienced any trouble with him. Upon his disappearance from the institution seven weeks after his second commitment, a search was begun a half hour after he was missed. Efforts to gain possession of him by investigation among farmers living near the asylum proved fruitless.

Was Given Freedom.

As he was allowed liberty at times by Capt. Archie Cullen, he was allowed to go to the window and look out over the grounds. He was given a chance to go outside and walk around the grounds.

An audience which filled the church listened to a thoughtful address given by Mrs. F. F. Lewis yesterday morning on the occasion of the annual thank offering services of the United Methodist Foreign Missionary society.

She took as her topic "Christ's Plea for Purity," and for the text, the words of Christ to the daughters of Jerusalem, "Weep not for me, but rather weep for yourself and for your children."

The Women's Missionary society has an answer to this plea for posterity, and endeavors to meet the need for physical aid, she said. She predicted the high goal set for missions in the Jubilee year would be surpassed this year, and the vision of the new motto "Hitherto and Henceforth" would be held high, showing that the call for womanhood was not for tears but service.

The following women took up the thank offering collection: Mrs. E. P. Hocking, Mrs. J. Lane, Mrs. E. P. Hocking, Mrs. T. H. Porter, Mrs. Geo. Miller, Mrs. F. J. Barfoot, and Mrs. S. M. Jacobs.

All the various missionary societies of the church marched in for a procession led by the tiny Light Bearers, and carried the banner and followed by the King's Standard Bearers and the older members of the Foreign and Home societies.

Look Over the Bird Houses.

More bird houses have come to the Gazette office. That is right. When you complete the house for the contest bring or send it in to the Gazette.

Yesterday was a bird day. Woodpeckers began to get busy and many birds, hiding for the last few days came out into the open. You will have to hurry. If there is an old bird house in the trees about the place where you live see that it is cleaned out and that the roof does not leak. The birds are particular about a leaky roof. They do not mind the wet when the nest is out in the open but they will not remain in a bird house that leaks.

It is the time to get busy. Don't wait until the last minute.

FORWARD, JANESEVILLE!

To make Janesville a better place in which to live and in which to do business, the Gazette pledges itself to work for and support these things:

Housing survey to discourage exorbitant rents; encouragement of building more houses; appraisal of property values so that rent profiteers may be made to pay the increased amount of taxes.

Open roads in the country 365 days of the year;
better roads generally, and supports of the road building plan; better streets and more paved streets in the city.

A market pavilion in the city which may also be used for many other purposes by farmers and livestock producers.

A community building to be used for auditorium, sport events, meetings, rest rooms, and also as a fitting memorial for soldiers.

Open the churches seven days a week and stop economic school room and time. Make basement meeting places for the young, and provide gymnasium facilities.

Build a real home for the girls who come here to work.

Open the fair grounds this year as a recreation park with tennis courts and other play apparatus.
Establish parks and playgrounds.

Better the street car service as population increases.

LINE OF LEAST RESISTANCE

Superintendent Cary should be supported in his fight against the movement to reduce the taxation for education.
It is one of the incidents in the effort to cut state expenses and with gross lack of vision, the instigators attack the line which they hope will present the least resistance. If the state officials wish to cut taxes let the special session be called for that purpose and wipe out about half of the expensive commissions and bureaus. We are a state government, not by the will of the people, but by the will of appointive commissions. These all help to establish a bureaucratic machine and every effort to reduce the cost or the number is looked upon by the office-holders as a sort of loss majestic.

When it comes to cutting expenses the officials of the national government are in the same boat. They have asked for billions for armament, and for other purposes of supposed defense. Both the war and navy departments have bitterly denounced congress for not giving all that was asked for these departments. But it will be noticed that when measures to put the soldiers who were willing to die over in Europe and to suffer all the indignities put upon them by a band of martinetts of the regular service, the hands of the secretary of the treasury and others are thrown up in protest. If the government is not lying about the situation, and we are so bad off financially, why do we continue to carry on the payrolls so large an army of dead clerks and chair-warming officials?

There came the other day a man from Wall street, a man in receipt of a large salary and rich, who stated before the house committee that the service men did not want a bonus. He did not understand, perhaps, that the bonus was asked as a matter of simple justice.

When it comes to repaying the larger part of the men it would be quite impossible. But because there is so many of him and it will take a large sum, the head of the appropriations committee and the treasury officials are of one accord in putting any such legislation on the shelf.

It is a gross injustice and there is no economy about it. Let the knife of reduction in expenses be used, but use it where it will pull the chair and the soft cushion from under some lazy official, and not be used to hurt the soldier.

So, in Wisconsin, wipe out the sinecures and keep the school funds up to the highest point needed for efficient service.

POLICE REVISION.

The city of Superior is still confronting a bad police situation. Some time since the mayor brought charges against the chief and they were sustained. A number of patrolmen turned in their badges. Superior was, in spite of the law, a notoriously open town. Gambling was winked at on all hands. The principal places where dice and card games could be found were in the back rooms of cigar stores. Pandering and the social evil were openly permitted to some favorites. Mayor Baxter, himself a man of very broad views, brought the charges which overturned the police department. It was brought out that any girl who went to Superior had to make a battle if she lived a clean life; the other kind was easy. In all these cities eternal vigilance is necessary, and especially in cities where new people are constantly coming in, as is the case in Janesville now.

WHERE WILL AMERICA BE?

What part will America play in the German revolution?
It seems to be assured that there will be a civil war, the southern members of the republic not at all being in favor of the junta coup d'état. The troops occupying the Rhine zone and wearing the American uniform are under the rules laid down in the armistice and not as the forces of French and British, under treaty terms. This is, in a measure an advantage as was evidenced by the action of Gen. Allen when he told the men of Coblenz that there would be no political strike permitted.

Germany is in a chaotic state and a score of ambitions are conflicting to gain control of the republic.
In Holland the late Kaiser is watching. What hopes and dreams of returning power are in his breast can only be conjectured.

NO SECRETARY, NO SUFFRAGE.

An interesting situation is that in reference to the secretary of state. If Delaware and Washington ratify the suffrage amendment next week, to make it effective, the result must be announced and certified by the secretary of state. But there is no secretary and no assistant who can take on the responsibility. So if the Senate does not confirm Mr. Colby, and it looks as though he might have to wait for some time, there will be no one to take the final act toward making suffrage sure.

The wets are going after the seat of J. C. Monahan,

SO EASY TO COMPLAIN.

The grumbler can always find reason to whine;
One cloud in the sky is an omen of rain.
But why should we fret if the weather is fine?
Fault finding's the easiest thing we can do,
It's seldom that things can be rated at par;
But what the world's wanting of me and of you
Is to try to be cheerful with things as they are.

There's many a flaw in the pleasures we plan,
There's many a thorn on the stem of the rose.
Life never makes perfect the pathway of man,
There are troubles to meet him wherever he goes.
The whiner can always find reason to whine,
The worst we can see when the best seems afar,
There are bound to be days when the sun fails to shine.
So try to be cheerful with things as they are.

It is easy to grumble and find fault and frown,
It is easy to criticize manners and men,
The cynics can tell what is wrong with their town
And the scorners are ready with tongue and with pen.

But here's to the man with the courage to see
The joys which exist, not the failings which mar,
Who looks for the best and is trying to be Contented, and cheerful with things as they are.

Story of the Seminoles

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 16.
The Seminole Indians are a rapidly vanishing race of men, which is the thing you most often hear about them, as vigorously denied by E. P. Simpson, who is editor of the Tropical Sun, a local newspaper, well known as an authority on the Seminoles with whom he has lived and hunted.

He says that after the Seminole War, when the greater part of the tribe was moved to a reservation, there were just 20 Indians left, which it is said, were moved. Europeans and Americans who had obtained land in the Seminole country, and the Seminoles had to leave. This little group constitutes the present free Seminole tribe, said to be the only Indians in the United States who were never conquered by the United States and have never acknowledged its sovereignty of its government. The Seminoles are practically a little nomad nation living within the confines of our own.

Picturesque both in appearance and in their situation in life, these Indians are much exploited and written about. They gave southern names to themselves, and the Seminoles are held to be the two most characteristic things in Florida—an alligator and the sun dance.

They are a matter of interest to tourists. The Seminoles and the alligator seem to be the two most important parts of the Seminole culture.

They are held up as a subject for tears. It is represented that they are rapidly dying out, that the draught of the glades is robbing them of their only home and hunting ground, that they will be lost to memory.

Only recently an organization has asked Congress to buy them some lands and their pathetic story then attracted much attention.

Now they probably need and should be given the lands, and it is probably true that the draught of the glades is robbing them of their only home and hunting ground, that they will be lost to memory. Only recently an organization has asked Congress to buy them some lands and their pathetic story then attracted much attention.

Mr. Simpson has some interesting facts and ideas about the Seminole tribe. He is in full contention with the Indians over the Sun Dance. A number of Seminoles are then brought to town and persuaded by liberal reward to perform some kind of the sun dance.

As a matter of fact, the Indians have no dance of their own known as the sun dance, and this dancing they do in town is purely a commercial operation on their part. The real ceremonial dances are held in the depths of the Everglades, and the white man is allowed to them although probably few daring enough to do so.

The occasion of the year is the corn dance. At this it is customary for all of the Indians to get drunk, it is said, except those who are on guard. It should not be supposed however, that the Seminoles are drunk all the time. The Indians are drunk only when the white man is around. The drinking is an occasional and ceremonial proceeding, somewhat like the Saturday night spree so generally observed by our own tribe before prohibition went into effect.

For a while these Indians were mere fugitives who dared not show themselves, but after a time they became part of a formal society with the whites by which each party agreed to let the other alone. To this treaty the Seminoles rigidly adhered. They still regard the white men as murderers and liars, but there is no case on record of a Seminole having injured a white man, and this is the only time when the Indians have been injured.

More Men Than Women. The fact seems to be that the balance of the sexes among the Seminoles has been upset by the relative infidelity of the women, most kinds of human beings, more males are born than females. In a savage tribe living a savage life, a great many more males are killed in war and hunting than females, with the result that there are usually more women than men, and polygamy is practiced. But the Seminoles have no convenient or reliable way of getting killed. They have no wars, the Everglades are safe and healthy. So the men have been increasing faster than the women for several generations, and this promises to be a factor which more and more will limit the rate of increase.

The Seminoles have camps or villages within easy reach of both Palm Beach and Miami, and a good many Plan Continuous Campaign.

Plans are being formulated for the organization of a permanent membership committee, composed of workers in the campaign just completed, with an honorary membership for each who secured ten new members and also selects some one to fill his place on the committee. The work is methodical, a continuous campaign will be conducted by about 40 members of the committee.

The Membership Campaign was conducted by Dan E. Weigle and Earl Smith of the American City Bureau and is a part of the Bureau's special continuation service, which continues at the Janesville Chamber of Commerce. This service was not included in the original contract of the bureau but has been made a part of its 1920 contracts. It is being furnished to a few Chambers which were organized during the past two years and which have made a record in their communities for accomplishments and efficient work in community building.

CONSCRIPTION OF LABOR NOW
RUSSIAN POLICY

(By David Lawrence)
(Copyright 1920 by Janesville Gazette)

Washington, March 15.—Dreams of leisure days and pleasure-filled nights have come to an abrupt standstill since the rigid hand of discipline which, like the governing classes of the past, threatens severe punishment to the slacker, is now the slogan of workmen in all army of toil.

News from the inside of Russia is rare. Communication is difficult. A budget of information has just come from authentic sources and through unquestioned channels. It tells of regeneration inside Russia but not by the nebulous programs and utopian methods so long preached by the demagogues but by the family system of conscription and enforced labor.

Women And Overtime

Large armies of labor converted from the "Soviet military forces are working Sundays and overtime on weekdays. Even women are coming to the rescue. Petrograd soviets are assisting Proletarian unions, and organizing qualified workmen. Idlers find no comfort in the new program of bolshevist Russia—a program of "get back to work."

Comrade Trotzky himself is president of the Revolutionary War Council signs the proclamation ordering the first revolutionary army to work. He exhorts his followers to show "indefatigable energy" in their work as much as if it were a combat or a fight.

The revolutionary tribunals say Trotzky's order, "should punish the lawless and the parasites and the thieves of national property. Conscientious soldiers, workmen and revolutionary peasants should be in the first rank. Their bravery and devotion should serve as an example to others and inspire them to act similarly."

Day By Day Grind

The bolshevist experiment still continues. But the latest information from inside the revolution-torn country shows that it is not the Russ of so soon ago that the country is again around the proletarian and the familar day by day grind by which nations have given their men, women and children an economic sustenance for centuries.

of Janesville as liquidated damages, the sum of twenty-five dollars per day for each and every day's delay in completing said work.

Large Bidders

Each bidder must accompany his proposal with a contract and bond with not less than two sureties, who shall be responsible for the payment of his debts to the contractors, and shall justify as to their responsibility and by their sworn affidavits show that they are entitled to the entire contract price property not by law exempt from execution. Surely companies authorized to do so may apply.

The revolutionary tribunals say Trotzky's order, "should punish the lawless and the parasites and the thieves of national property. Conscientious soldiers, workmen and revolutionary peasants should be in the first rank. Their bravery and devotion should serve as an example to others and inspire them to act similarly."

Small contracts and bonds with sureties must be completely executed on the part of the contractor, with the exception of the signatures on the part of city, town, village, etc., which are to be signed by the contractor.

MYERS THEATRE

The Myers theatre is to have a genuine novelty on the evenings of March 15 and 16. It is that world renowned "RAFFLES" and his famous attractions, vaudeville, and sensational.

AND MUST BE COMPLIED WITH

EDIDS failing to comply with the above requirements will not be considered and must submit proposal to do the entire work according to the respective specifications, profiles, plans, and details thereof which bid is made stating therein prior to the date of the opening of bids.

Proposals may be submitted for paving and curbing of the first three of the above named groups of streets, aggregating 10,146 square yards of brick paving, 1000 square yard for driveway, 1000 square yard for playing brick paving, per linear foot for furnishing combined cement curb and gutter, cement curbing and individual concrete curbs to be accepted at the option of the Board.

Proposals shall be submitted for paving each of the last eight named of the Wisconsin Statutes, where applicable, of paving and curbing, to be determined after the proposals for the several kinds specified have been received. The proposals shall cover the construction of the concrete curb and on a six inch concrete foundation in accordance with the respective plans specifications and requirements.

Proposals may be submitted for improving each of said streets separately conditioned and made binding on the bidder only in case he is awarded the contract, or on the bidder only in case it is awarded to one or more of the other groups of streets.

All proposals and the accompanying contracts shall be submitted in writing and on blank contracts and bonds will be signed by the undersigned for the purpose, and prices shall be stated in writing and in figures to address all proposals as follows:

"Board of Public Works" with the name of the street or streets upon which such bid is made, marked on the envelope and file the same with the city clerk of said city.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

"Is this Cleo? 5072? Mrs. Mast there? Oh, hello, Athena, dear, this is Anna Saffery. Listen Ath: I'm in a big quandary. It's business; and you know how much I know about business!"

"Jim was asked to report on some property he owned and little did he know that the owner he started an unscrupulous pack and wants Jim's company to buy him out. Jim reported that the thing looked splendid. But old man Oakes wouldn't take the risk. Now the owner has put it up to Jim and his wife doesn't seem to want to go shares."

"It will catch all Jim's savings and he will have to go out to the property live in a shack with a bunch of engineers and workmen for two or three months. He thinks it's a sure go and he will make a fortune. He puts it all up to me, Athena—to me!"

"The and dandy!" came Athena's voice over the wire. "I always told you Jim had the makings of a business man. He had as much sense about other things as he does."

"Athena, you don't mean you think we ought to take such a chance? What will become of me all alone here, or I'll have to go out to mother's or—"

"Oh, 'fiddlesticks!' exploded my friend so vigorously that it nearly shattered my ear drum as I pressed the receiver against it. 'There you are again with your 'what if' talk! Carrots, you were howling because Jim never took you into his confidence about business deals. Now you howl because he trusts you too much.'

"Most women would thank their stars for such a match. A whole lot of them would be elated at the idea and come to Blend Wife afterward with the bare announcement that she must pack up her trunk and hike. Be a sport, Ann! Here is your chance to be partners with Jim—to stand or fall by your own efforts and to have a real share in the results."

"But do you think it's safe?" I urged.

"Shucks!" shouted Athena, making me jump again. "Don't be always praying for a sure thing. Pray for the nerve that lets you try for the thing that isn't sure—the thing that makes you work hard and think hard. Don't hide yourself with an easy life, a comfortable income and Hammonds Corners! Besides, you know old Jim. It takes him a century to see anything. You can bet he threshes the thing out well before he decides it up for you. Don't let him talk you into it. Take the chance. Be an adventurer."

"But what about Jimmie, Junior?"

"Well, what about him?" chuckled Athena. "Jim can't help any in getting him here. He's much better off staying at Silver Lake than pacing the hospital corridor begging for bulletins."

"Hospital, Ath! Do you think—"

"I don't think. I know. That reminds me. Carrots, dear, I've been investigating something. If you didn't know it, you'd have been on my way to the corners by this time."

"You old adorable darling angel! Coming to see me? Oh, Ath, hurry, hurry!"

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A PLAIN BABY-II

By DR. BRADY FOR ACCURACY

It is not to be supposed that I remember all these little details of my early infancy. I said I was just an ordinary everyday kid. I have no better memory than any other babies. But fortunately I formed a habit early in my career of keeping a diary. The details of my childhood, including here would have been burned or erased by the swift flight of time. Why, I am not at all since I was a doddling, toe-chewing, chattering infant; and here I am two years old. I keep a continuing record of all my unique experiences. There is nothing like a diary to give a person more accurate information than a human being can get in trying a remedy on a sick pup.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
One of Those Movie Babies.

My baby man is 8 months old and I intend to wean at nine months. Would you advise me to give him whole milk right off the start or should I take him gradually give it to him? He is taking vegetables and meat broths as suggested and doing fine so I am not sure about it (Mrs. T. E. M.)

ANSWER: It would probably be well to give him whole milk to the "Pioneer American Cure for Heart Disease" and the "American Medicine Will" will tell you whether the institution bears a good reputation among medical men (letter from Mrs. T. E. M.)

ANSWER: There is none with a better reputation. The manager is taking advantage of a certain literary. In its front page it makes a great claim for the "Pioneer American Cure for Heart Disease" and the "American Medicine Will" will tell you whether the institution bears a good reputation among medical men (letter from Mrs. T. E. M.)

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

"Certainly," I returned. "You have only to look up the cases and convince yourself. In the Halloran case, a year ago, Halloran's wife was shot and refused to let her out when she asked. He did her no harm and made no threats"—here I looked at the revolver in a significant way—"but he got twenty years. But in the Cominsky case—the man who was electrocuted last week, as you probably read in the papers—Cominsky locked a woman up and threatened her with a revolver. He got the death penalty."

As these fictitious cases dropped off my tongue, monsieur, with a catlike slyness, slipped the revolver back into his pocket, though he mindfully moved to open the door as I had hoped. Still, I say I had gained ground with him—though the ground I longed for lay outside the house.

"Very good," said he, after some seconds of consideration. "We do not know much about Madame, has she a family of her own?—elsewhere upon her person, or in some place concealed, and until Madame decides to return home, she will make herself comfortable here without food or water, but if she wishes to give them to me now, she may depart at once."

I thought of the face.
I think this disconcerted him more than anything I'd done.

"How long do you think you can keep me here?" I demanded.

"Zat depends on Madame," he returned with a shrug and a significant glance at the shuttered window.

"You speak as though you supposed nobody knew where I was."

"It is useless for you to call to Madame Delario—she will not come."

"I wasn't thinking of doing it. But my brother will come. He knows that I am here and is coming to see me."

He was in my house when your message came. He had come over from Philadelphia with his lawyer and some papers for me to sign. When you told me Mrs. Delario was so ill, I waited for nothing—rushed down there, just as I did. My brother and his lawyer were to follow me here in an hour and I am to go with them to the notary's to sign the papers. The hour is almost up!"

Monsieur bit his lips. Here was a contingency he hadn't reckoned with—that I had arranged to have some one call for me. Then a bright idea struck him. "Zat man is simply arranged," said he with a wicked smile. "I tell your dear brother zat you have already gone home to him, and he will not wait."

I tried to laugh again, though I felt like a fool in attempting it; for I was beginning to be frightened. But I said: "Don't flatter yourself you could deceive my brother with a tale like that—he knows me too well. I told him he would wait and he knew he would keep my word. He would know the instant you said I had gone—he would know the minute he looked into your face—that something was wrong—here. In five minutes he'd be back with the police and break in the door."

This was the signal out of his sail for a minute. Then he rose to the situation in a masterful way; and I must say for him that he was no mean adversary. Drawing the key from his pocket, he unlocked the door, saying: "And now madame will be pleased to step out. Madame Delario is living and he is not to come today about so important papers."

I saw my one chance lay in pretending I'd do and then breaking loose; so I stepped out—he at my heels ready to grab me—and making a feint of going upstairs, the idea being to get away and get out by putting one foot on the lowest step. At that, I gave a loud, wild-western "whoop-e!" right in his face, and punched him in the chest as hard as ever I could. He lost his balance, went rolling backward and sat down on the floor. Before I recovered from the shock of my unladylike behavior, he had bolted through the front door and reached the street.

CHAPTER VII

I See Through the Plot
There are moments when I fancy that at the thought that I am an American citizen. Such a moment came after I had shot through the vestibule door and found myself in the complacent street. I was safe—safe. I was where I could avert the first passing man to protect me in the name of American womanhood.

In the jubilation of my freedom and safety I stopped and looked back at the house. The Holland shade was drawn downstairs, but as I looked, a finger—I knew it must be monsieur's—pulled an edge of the shade and an eye peered at me.

I saw the middle of a gun of division at him which, I knew, was caught by something at an upper window. It was a hand—a waving hand—such a hand that said, "Go away—go away!" as fast as it could, and said it to me.

An instant later I saw a face and recognized Mrs. Delario. Then the face was gone and the hand said, "Go away!" again and disappeared also.

Monsieur, seeing me standing, apparently interested in something happening upstairs, pulled the shade out a little farther. So what I did was deliberately to cross the street and walk on to the window.

"Rise the window—want to speak to you?" I shouted.

The window was raised about six inches and monsieur put his evil-smelling face down to listen.

"Now do you darendest?" said I. And I snapped my fingers at him and walked away.

Though it was early I began to feel hungry and I kept on till I reached a French restaurant where I generally lunch when I'm downtown. It was too soon for the music, my own thoughts were music enough just then, and anyway I felt safe.

But by the time the salad came the reaction set in. The world turned drab, mottled with black responsibility and streaked with red indignation. I rob a young girl! Good heavens—her father must be insane to such a girl! I'm a scoundrel! I seen with her jewel case in my hands! Procrustean! And poor poor Mrs. Delario—she, too, had been accused on top of all her trouble about her diamonds.

I had raised the coffee to my lips but hadn't tasted it, when the words went through my head like a shot: "YOU ARE THE ONE ARE MRS. DELARIO'S DIAMONDS!"

Mrs. Delario had sworn to me that they were hers. Had she robbed Claire coming over or the steamer? Impossible! She was too good a woman. But even so, how had monsieur connected me with them? Had That seemed impossible; and yet, tell you what, I never shaken his conviction that I had them—and that he meant to get them by fair means or foul.

Dinner Stories

A tale of woe, with Sir Arthur Sharley Benin, head of the British trade mission, was told at a dinner recently. Sir Arthur, when he arrived in the United States, brought his own supply with him—in a gold box. Recently the supply was exhausted and a small child started crying because of his hunger. Calling in some of his fellow delegates, Sir Arthur proposed a final drink. Glasses were filled, the bottle was emptied and a toast was proposed. Sir Arthur likes water in his. Housing Here Hits Baseball; Gharry to Senators

NO HOMES HERE FOR SAMSON MEN

Crack Pitcher Turns Down Contract Because He Cannot Bring Wife Along.

The housing situation in Janesville has come to a new angle. It has hit the Samson baseball team a hard blow.

While conditions have been acute in this respect for some time making it extremely difficult to get first class players, men of high character and good citizenship qualities, and especially those with wives and families, the climax of affairs came today with the announcement that chances of getting DuMont of Minneapolis to pitch for the Tractor nine are dead. This tyro, who is a crack and whose wife, though she is a crack and would add considerable strength to the big plant's team, wants to come here. He is satisfied with the terms of the contract; he likes the town; he is pleased with the prospects of playing ball here and at the same time working for Samson. But he cannot find a place to live.

Willing to Go Half Way

DuMont was willing to go more than half way to help out the Samson team. He was willing to come into less than a day so long as he and his wife might live fairly comfortably. However after a vain search of several days for rooms, the best he could find, even with all the help placed at his disposal by Samson and the Chamber of Commerce, was one room, and that dependent upon the fact that he might not be able to have it for more than six weeks when the lady of the house would return from California.

Wires "Cannot Accept."

DuMont went back to Minneapolis Saturday to discuss the situation with his wife. Today he wired back: "I cannot agree to housing proposition. Let me know if anything new has turned up."

This telegram shows his sporting blood. He wants to come, but he naturally desires comfort for his wife.

Such a situation is one which demands the immediate attention of the baseball fans of this town. Janesville is a good ball city. We have lots of fans to make the Samson nine a success. Just as it is necessary for the fans to back the team to the limit by their attendance at the games, so it now turns out that with the industrial boom they must also lend their help in finding homes for the personnel of the Samson Tractor Co.

Up to Fans to Help

Breckenridge, one of the other Samson players, found it almost impossible to get a room. After searching around for days he finally located one.

The whole point of the matter is that these players can go elsewhere to play ball where they may be able to get good homes for their families. They are naturally entitled to such consideration.

If there are any persons in the city who know of rooms, flats or houses that might be procured to enable Janesville to get off the baseball map, let us know. If not, writing good telegrams to the personnel committee at once with the personnel office of the Samson Tractor Co.

FINAL FAIRIES GAME AT BELOIT SATURDAY

With the series standing three to one in favor of the Lakota Cardinals of this city, the keenest of interest of basketball fans is looking forward to Saturday night when the final game will be played against the Beloit Fairies at the college gymnasium.

While more than 1,100 fans saw the last game a little more than a week ago, it is expected that near to 1,300 will be packed like sardines to the gymnasium. The girls will be turned away at the door. The same arrangements as to seating for Jamesville fans of reserving one side of the house will be resorted to at this final contest. Indications are that close onto 400 will make the trip south from here for the sudden closing of the series is based upon the fact that the Fairbanks-Morse baseball team starts on its spring training trip on the 25th and will take with it 24 bel and several other members of the basketball five.

Following the game, a banquet for the players of the Janesville team will be held to close the season.

BRINGING UP FATHER

GAME WITH DELAVAN WAS TIE--BRODHEAD

[By Gazette Correspondent]

Delavan, March 15.—Delavan high school basketball team played a game with the local high school gym Friday.

The game was rough from start to finish, and the visitors being a fast team.

The first half ended 4 to 6 in favor of the visitors. In the second half the home boys' game got out of hand follows until they reached a score of 9 and 9 when neither could score.

Time was called but the noise was deafening that neither team heard the whistle, and both kept on playing until Delavan scored the third basket, a Delavan man, said of course that ball don't count, and endeavored to have his team return to the floor and play off the tie, as did also the Delavan coach, but the team refused to do so, hence the tie.

The B. H. S. Girls team went to Monroe last evening where they played the girls team of that city, being defeated by a score of 4 to 6. This ends Brodhead's season.

This story contradicts the one printed in the Gazette Saturday in which the Delavan boys said they won.

As You Were

By BUCK
Of the Stars and Stripes A. E. F.

THE WALL
He built a wall around him
Of silver and of gold.
That men might not confound him
When he was weak and old.

He found but empty pleasure
The marts of men among,
He found the sweetest measure
The song his anvils sung.

With fervor undiminished
He toiled, until, with pride,
He saw his bastions finished
And laid his tools aside.

His frowning arch and column
Bid wunderer begone,
Few brav'd his portals, solemn,
But those who came to lawn.

Though friendship's voice beseech'd him,
So thick his wall and stout,
It seemed, if it might reach him,
To him a beggar's shout.

And though his heart was lonely,
He gloried in his gold,
"Tis mine," he smiled, "mine only.

To have and mine to hold."

Then suddenly each stalwart Shook like storm-wrecked pine,
And sounded through the mansion,
The voice of Death, "Nay, mine!"

According to the latest dispatches, says ex-Sergeant SOI, about the only nation that took part in the late war which is now at peace is America. But then, he says, that may be overdone, when we sign the treaty.

WE TAKE LIBERTY TO SUGGEST
"Deutschland Ueber Alles" has been forbidden in Berlin hotels because it has a tendency to start stray members of the Hohenzollern family throwing champagne bottles.

Prussia, the name of the son of the ex-Kaiser's sons tried it recently in the Hotel Adlon several waiters were injured.

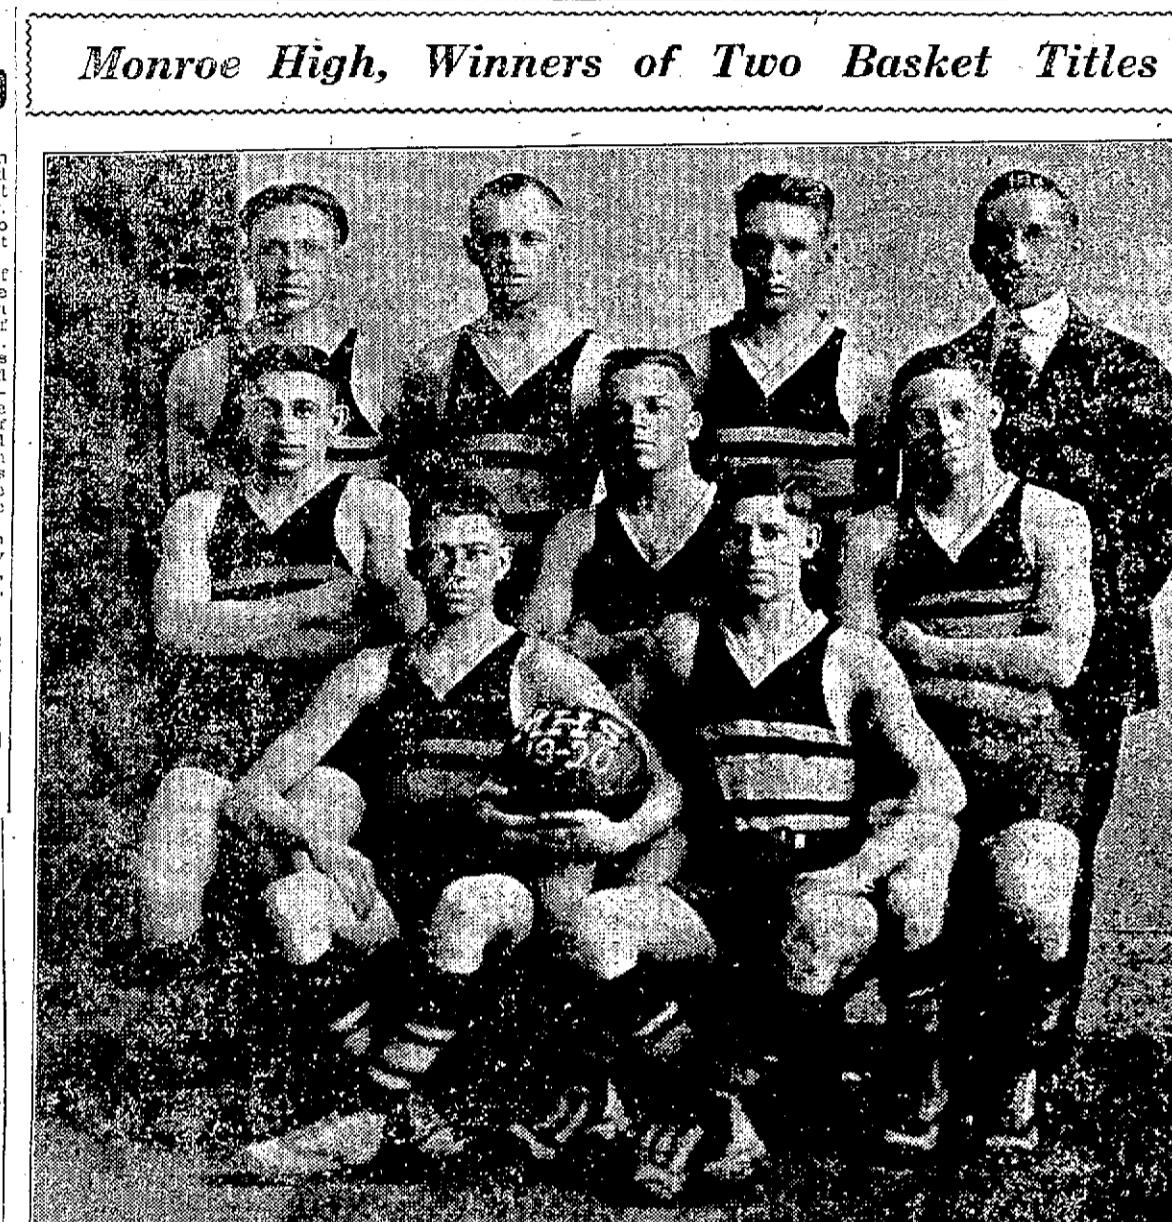

It is unfortunate for the Hohenzollerns that they can't be allowed a little pleasure in these democratic days, although undoubtedly the new law will improve the service in the hotels.

We have a counter-suggestion to offer. Why not get permission from the Spanish to use the "Prevention of Cruelty to Backwoods Children" to save the entire family with real hand-grenades and let them get out in an empty lot and throw them at each other.

As none of them ever got near each other, I am sure they probably won't do much harm and I will give them a lot of healthy exercise and keep the family together.

Griffith Returns After Cleaning Up France

OFFICIALS URGE EDDIE TO SIGN

Eddie Gharry, catcher for the Beloit Fairies' baseball team, is going back to the team.

This announcement was made today by Dennis McCarthy of the Fairbanks-Morse athletic board in confirmation of a report that the Washington American team had finally landed their former player through Al Chubb, manager of the Fairies' nine.

Last week the report was given out that Griffith of the national commission has put the ban on the Beloit team because Gharry was said to have "broken" his contract with Washington. However, at that time, McCarthy denied it and still says that Gharry had no contract with Washington this year.

Fairly Officials Act.

Rather than have their team placed on the black-list of organized ball, the officials of the Fairbanks-Morse company, after fully considering the matter, have finally decided to let Eddie go back to the major, although Gharry himself would prefer remaining with the Gateway city.

Speaking of the situation today, McCarthy stated that ever since Gharry signed a short time ago to play with the Fairies, all public announcements are concerned his conference with John A. Heyder, president of the National League, did not result in the amateur on his candidate for the chair of national commissioners.

No COMMISH HEAD YET.
